

This is what we observe:

0000111100010000000000000011100000000000

These are the two examples that you mentioned. I think they are distinguishable (even though they leave many „degrees of freedom“ to the GARCH process...). Also, these cases don't exist in my data.

