

TTL inverter with clamping diode at the input.
 The circuit to the left is a High pass filter.
 It is used to create spikes or undershoots that are fed to the inverter input.